

The Innovation of College Students' Dormitory Management Mode Based on the Thought and Behavior Characteristic of College Students of 90's

YU Wanxia

Wuhan University, Wuhan 430000, China; Huanggang Normal University, Huanggang 438000, China

The dormitory is not only the important place where students stay and study, but it is also the important battlefield to conduct the ideological and political education and the representative in building spiritual civilization. In new period, we must innovate dormitory management mode and perform its educational function according to the characteristics of college students of 90's. This paper analyzed the challenge to dormitory management mode and put forward some methods of innovating dormitory management mode effectively.

Keywords: the dormitory; the college students of 90's; management mode; innovation

Challenges of Thought and Behavior Characteristic of College Students of 90's to College Students' Dormitory Management Mode

Weak Ideal Belief and Brittle Faith

The 21st century is the era of the information, with the continuous influx of Western ideas, especially pragmatism, non-Marx doctrine, the doctrine of Marxism, post-modernism into China, which makes a diversification trend to the value orientation of China. Most of the 90's college students are one-child generation. They begin ideological theory and moral cultivation from the primary school and it has been extended to the university. They still need to learn the Marxist, scientific socialism and other basic political courses. Textbook knowledge has been constantly instilling their brains, but they lack the ability to recognize new ideas and identify the diversification. In the effect of diversified value orientation, they go to plan their own future with diversified thought, leading to its ideal belief, easily shaken, not conducive to the growth of their own behavior. This belief which easily shakes college students' belief will induce the difficulty to management. A lot of advanced culture propaganda and ideal faith education convey to students through college student dormitory of the site, so this is tantamount to the college student dormitory management. It has brought serious challenges, which requires the management work of college students with the characteristics of students' innovative ideas and methods to change the status quo.

* Fund project: This study has been supported by the Students' Affairs Research Branch of China Higher Education Association—2016 General Project of College Students' Management (Project ID LX2016Y049) and Huanggang Normal College—2016 General Project of Transformation of the School Management (Project ID zxfz2016B032).

YU Wanxia, PhD candidate of pedagogy major in Wuhan University; Lecture in Business School, Huanggang Normal University.

Strengthened Self-awareness and Courage to Challenge the Authority

College students of 90's are basically one-child generation, their growth environment is not only based on food and clothing, but on the establishment of a new family, society, school trinity education environment. It is this special family background, social background and educational background make them self-conscious and self-centered. Although they still respect the mainstream thoughts and observe the rules and regulations in the environment, there will always be some students in the specific actions to consider from a personal point of view, such as electricity in the dormitory security issues, many students will only take the convenience of their own way to do, and often overlooked with high-energy appliances may fire at any time security issues, but like to pay attention to the second class, to participate in various practical activities, and self-protection awareness has increased significantly, the courage to challenge the authority in various places. In this case, college dormitory managers, if not carefully study the characteristics of this generation of students, familiar with the basic situation of students, innovative dormitory management system, through an effective management system to restrict student radical behavior, then The management system of college students' management dormitories will face serious challenges, which will seriously affect the effectiveness of student dormitory management, and not conducive to the healthy growth of students.

Attachment to the Virtual World, Good Access to Information

The rapid development of modern network technology, for college students to provide a convenient way to change the technical conditions. 90's college students to master the network technology and its application to mobile phones, computers, through microblogging, WeChat, QQ and other virtual ways to communicate with people, and happy in the real world to be gradually alienated. Of course, they can quickly get information from the network, the reception of new things faster than some teachers cannot. For example, during the 2016 Rio Olympics, they can obtain relevant information from the mobile phone. They are good at online interactive communication and make friends. Many students take it as an entertainment network, used to play games in the dorm Internet chat, watch movies, and even some students will free all night in the cyber world, the other students outside the dormitory, to deal with the relationship between the students. School administrators, college dormitory counselors, security administrators are difficult to have the time to experience in the virtual world interaction with students, especially in the work of the dormitory administrator, college dormitory counselors, security administrators have time to experience the interaction with students in the virtual world, in particular, Difficult to grasp the network popular language and symbolic expression, can not be fully integrated into the hearts of students, thereby increasing the difficulty of dormitory management.

Clear Career Positioning and Courage to Break Through the Self

In today's era of rapid technological development, 90's College Students with independent consciousness, have their own ideas and thoughts, they will start to his career planning as soon as they come to the school, in the investigation process on the part of local university business students, it is not difficult to find that their occupation position is clear, after four years of College 30% would choose to go to school for further study, 12% would choose a career in politics, 50% would choose the shopping malls, 8% would choose to teach....., everyone's ideas are not the same, but one thing is the same, they are no longer subject to parents and other constraints. Each of them will make a plan, learn professional knowledge in a period will also participate in various group organization activities, improve the practice ability and communication ability, in the second period and they will graduation certificate, degree certificate linked to various certificate, in the third period they began to test all kinds of occupation certificate, most of the students will choose a driver's license, teacher qualification certificate, accounting qualification certificate, certificate of human resource division and so on, these certificates will provide convenient conditions for their employment. Because of their clear positioning, resulting in the original The dormitory management more difficult, they will take control of the rest time is not possible in 11 before going to bed on time, and even some students because of the need to test a driver's license and get up early to dorm door, some students in the library to review will stay late, when the dormitory has been closed, they need to call them up. This is a great challenge to the original dormitory management mode.

The Effective Way to Innovate the Management Mode of College Students' Dormitory

To Promote the Innovation of Cultural Management of College Dormitory Management

The construction of dormitory culture is the prerequisite for the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities and is the inevitable requirement for the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities, and the two are closely related. "Which hostel civilization should be built, how to build a hostel civilization" should focus on "small society" "big family" and "invisible classroom" traits and characteristics. In this way we can cultivate and promote the socialist core values. Therefore, the construction of college dormitory culture should be closely linked to the characteristics of students' thinking and behavior to improve the degree of university students dormitory civilization, to create a student learning, life, social, rest and practice five in one "home", they can feel the warmth of home and the transfer of knowledge in the dormitory, dormitory culture and through the creation of WeChat, the micro-blog platform, the construction of cultural propaganda window, the promotion of cultural propaganda, we can fit the trend of new contemporary college students transfer to the dormitory and apply the new way to the dormitory, in a relaxed environment live wave reflects the transfer of knowledge and cultural heritage, the selection of model innovation of advanced college dormitory, founded the briefing, establish a positive and benchmarking study for typical dormitory students. We can also establish dormitory learning salon, improvement of learning initiative, strengthen law-abiding. Healthy competition between quarters can promote students to maintain good environmental consciousness, the dormitory is one of the important places for students to learn in life, good dormitory environment can effectively guarantee the students' physical and mental health, training members of the dormitory interpersonal skills, while providing a good learning atmosphere, provide promotional channels for students to strengthen the law concept. To promote environmental protection type dormitory, buy less to buy, how to use their own tableware dining, less production of garbage, sanitation and environmental protection. The green bedroom knowledge quiz, the forum, the democratic supervision mechanism.

To Promote the Innovation of the College Dormitory Management Service

Dormitory management of college students should be combined with the ideological characteristics of contemporary college students to explore the innovative thinking of college dormitory service model. The fundamental interests of the students' dormitory management should be served in the first place, so that we can improve the service level to serve the students service spirit and achieve the students results. First, we should establish love for the service concept, always put the interests of students and the development in the first; secondly, we can create innovation and diversification of dormitory management. For example, we can open student dormitory WeChat public number, the person responsible for the establishment, inform the students the weather, campus activities, class time and so on, at the same time, deeply understand the students' dormitory

State, attention to students, teachers and students of student satisfaction survey and held various seminars, timely find defects in the service process, and constantly improve service, improve the service ability. Can take different forms of service for students of different grades, such as fold the quilt in the big game in a second, male and female students dormitory design appraisal comments the game, big third of dormitory style construction. The game again, carry out the service curriculum, strengthen the management of the theoretical knowledge of learning, to focus on learning and self learning method of combining the theoretical level, to enhance the students' dormitory management at the same time, launched a good performance on-site experience exchange and training out Investigation of mechanism. Finally, the selection of love dormitory, dormitory building special love box, not only increase management service efforts, more important is to promote students' self management in the process of mutual aid.

To Promote the Innovation of college Dormitory Management System Model

College student dormitory management system is a rigid restriction on the student management system, through some restrictions and fetters to constraints on students in many colleges and universities have a suitable management mode and method. In the course of the investigation of some students in several colleges and universities, we find that the management of dormitories has been increased in recent years, and the corresponding measures have been taken to promote the scientific management of dormitory. This is also a combination of 95 students under the premise of the ideological and behavioral characteristics of the further management of the dormitory reform and innovation. First, the formation of counselors, party groups, student organizations, administrators, one of four management organizations, the establishment of education, management, service quality education base, posting the relevant organizational chart and information. The establishment of the bedroom dormitory system, the establishment of bedroom sleeping card system, the use of large data analysis of students sleeping situation; the establishment of the Institute of dormitory home network, the establishment of college dormitory network, Help students learn about accommodation online. Third, the establishment of the dormitory management system. Such as: dormitory management regulations, dormitory safety liaison system, dormitory check sleep system, dormitory long responsibility system, through the implementation of the system and the decomposition of responsibility to improve the efficiency of dormitory management. Four is to take the ideological education into the dormitory model. Ideological and political education in colleges and universities not only in the classroom, in the day-to-day management of counselors also appear at all times, it is a kind of preventive model for students, stay one-third of the dormitory is indispensable, Then this need to break through the professional, grade and class management constraints, and innovation to promote the work carried out.

To Promote the Innovation of Self-management of College Dormitory Model

College student dormitory management in the dormitory is through the development of system, to take measures to improve the effectiveness of dormitory management. Its purpose is to let the students in the visible management process gradually dilute the management vision, by he law into self-discipline, by his tube into self-management. The highest level of this management is not only what the university managers want to see, it is personalized bright 95 students to give full play to self-management ability to effectively reflect and enhance. And this kind of management way needs college administrators to set up self-management committee, take the way of guiding students self-management, give full play to the leading role of dormitory management cadre and so on. Self-management committee should adhere to the principle of self-learning, self-restraint and self-service, especially the strict requirement of class cadres to achieve their goals of self-management and education through their self-management and supervision. The establishment of student dormitory long meeting mechanism, the implementation of one week a meeting, learn from each other, learn from each other, and ultimately to cultivate students learning, life and self-management purposes. The establishment of the Institute to coordinate the help of the bedroom, give full play to students to help coordinate and self-discipline.

References

Feijin, DU (2016, June 21). Make the Dormitory a Place of Civilization. The Guangming Daily, p. 6A.